welcome you to this special

Memorial Service

Introduction

The School of Anatomy, Physiology and Human Biology has been teaching anatomy for more than 50 years. Each semester, we have approximately 3000 students enrolled in the School's teaching programs, undertaking studies in science, medicine, dentistry and podiatry. The School's anatomical facilities are essential for training these students, as well as medical and allied health students at the other four Western Australian universities. We also work closely with the Clinical Training and Evaluation Centre (CTEC) in the presentation of professional training courses for health care professionals.

We are extremely grateful to those individuals who bequeath their mortal remains to the University, to further medical and scientific teaching and research. These donors have all come from within Western Australia. We recognise that their mortal remains, gifted to us as a final, profound gesture, are each unique and special. Through today's ceremony, we celebrate the donors' lives and acknowledge the benefit their gift provides to us all.

Inaugurated in 1999, this is the sixth Memorial Ceremony to be held by the School of Anatomy, Physiology and Human Biology. We believe that a dedication of thanksgiving expressed in the presence of donors' relatives, honoured guests and current students is the most appropriate way to acknowledge those who have donated their body to the University. Importantly, given the sensitivities of donors' relatives and the diverse cultural and religious backgrounds of our many students, we believe a religious ceremony would not be appropriate. As such, this secular ceremony is one in which all those present can participate, with their private thoughts and interpretations, inclusively.

A feature of the ceremony is the 'Reading of the Names'. Through this act, we acknowledge publicly donors over the three year period from 2011 to 2013. Each donor's name has been inscribed in a Book of Remembrance that will be available for viewing in the Winthrop Hall foyer, after the ceremony, and is permanently housed in the School of Anatomy, Physiology and Human Biology. (Although the latest addition of donors' names is for the most recent three-year period, 2011-2013, the School welcomes requests from relatives to include the names of donors from earlier years. To request the inclusion of a donor's name in the Book of Remembrance, please complete and return the form included at the back of this booklet.)

In addition to today's ceremony, a Memorial Garden, in the immediate surrounds of the School of Anatomy, Physiology and Human Biology, commemorates the gift made by the donors to the Body Bequest Program. The Memorial Garden was established through the generosity of the Tahija Family and features a bronze sculpture by renowned artist Hans Arkeveld. We invite all friends and relatives of donors to visit this special place of remembrance and reflection at any time.

The School and the Metropolitan Cemeteries Board have also established a designated garden at Karrakatta Cemetery to identify The University of Western Australia's Body Bequest Program. Each year the ashes of donors not returned to the next of kin are interred in this garden and their names are inscribed on an annual plaque. Relatives are welcome to visit this garden at any time.

Your participation in this ceremony is very important to us and, on behalf of the School, I thank you for attending.

Act of Recognition

On behalf of The University of Western Australia, and in particular the staff and students of the School of Anatomy, Physiology and Human Biology, I hereby express formally, in this act of recognition, our gratitude for the gifts of human bodies, and our respect for those who have generously bequeathed their mortal remains so that we may study, learn and understand.

We recognise that there is something most special about the material that we handle and study. Each of these gifts represents a person with a history of growth from childhood, of a rich and varied life story, of health and illness, of joy and sadness, of human relationships, of intellectual and spiritual achievement.

Memories live on in those who have joined us in this celebration today.

We now pause for one minute in a small act of respect, remembrance and gratitude.
